Joseph A. Bushner retired as an Assistant Special Agent in Charge of the Philadelphia Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. With more than 22 years of experience, Joe has extensive leadership experience regarding complex investigations and was directly responsible for the division's crisis management personnel and assets, as well as all compliance issues. Joe has experience supervising both criminal and national security investigations, and has built extensive relationships within the law enforcement and intelligence communities. As a special agent, Joe played a leading role in several significant public corruption and organized crime investigations. As a former SWAT operator, as well as a tactical and firearms instructor with 20 years of experience, Joe has directly trained hundreds of agents and law enforcement personnel in tactics and crisis response. He has also provided numerous training and awareness sessions to both businesses and schools regarding the active shooter threat.

Michael Kent Bantner served for 24 years as a Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation. During his tenure with the FBI he supervised, conducted and monitored long-term, multi-jurisdictional investigations involving violations of criminal law. His expertise includes investigating corporate fraud, financial institution fraud, securities fraud and other frauds, business email compromise and misconduct schemes. Michael's success is founded on his ability to ensure all investigations are comprehensive, timely, and include clear and concise reports. Michael has extensive trial experience and has testified in dozens of criminal procedures. Michael has made numerous presentations to financial institutions, law enforcement agencies and community organizations on fraud schemes and trends, including the implementation of controls to mitigate risks. Michael is a Certified Public Accountant, a Certified Fraud Examiner, and earned his MBA from Temple University's Fox School of Business.

James F. Carty served as the Chief Security Officer for the Philadelphia Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. While serving in that capacity, Jim was responsible for the division's overall security posture, to include all aspects of information, personnel and physical security. Jim is a 36 year veteran of the Philadelphia law enforcement community and has been an adjunct professor of computer information systems for 18 years at the Community College of Philadelphia. During his tenure as a professor, Jim has instructed students in computer networking and digital forensics, as well as computer and network security. Jim has both a Bachelor of Arts and a Masters of Science degree in Information Systems Management from Holy Family University. Jim is also certified as a Certified Information Systems Security Professional (CISSP).

All three professionals are proud military veterans.
